Back Again, for the First Time

Freshmen, Transfer, and Returning Students Prepare for New School Year

As of August 26, 2002, summer officially came to an end for SFA students. It was time for them to return to their academic mindsets, but this couldn't be done without some preparation. The University Center was crowded as freshmen students were busy having their photo IDs taken. Returning students were also having their ID photos taken again, simply because they didn't like last year's photo or because they had a new look and wanted their student ID to reflect it. Other students were standing in long lines in the UC Bookstore purchasing books and supplies.

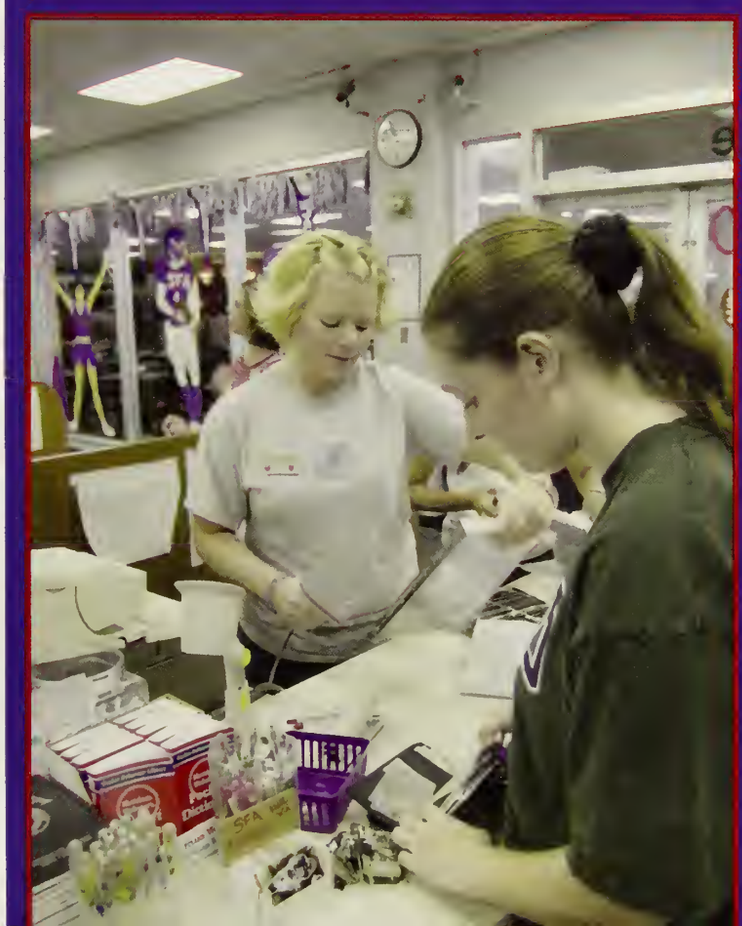

What kind of school year would it be if there were no lines in the Financial Aid office? Transfer, returning, and freshmen students were in the Austin Building the first few days of school, making sure their financial aid was in order. The Business Office was also kept very busy during this time period. Even students living off-campus were in line Monday morning at 8 a.m. to receive a cash advance on their difference checks, so that they, too, could purchase books.

Students whose parents helped them move in had their work cut out for them. Halls such as Hall 14, South and Wisely were not as lucky as those in other dorms like Steen, Kerr and Hall 20. They didn't have elevators to help with this excruciating day. Nevertheless, everyone got beyond the back-to-school blues, and classes were off to a good start.

The Big Dip

Students Participate in SFA's First Ring Ceromony

The year 2002 marked SFA's first-ever Mentor Ring Ceremony, a tradition that is expected to be perpetuated in years to come. The first participants received their rings in a spirit-filled ceremony near the Stephen F. Austin statue on a bright spring day.

The Mentor Ring program is designed for SFA students who either complete 66 college hours or achieve junior classification status. Unlike any other college ring, the Mentor Ring is created specifically by the SFA Alumni Association. Students who purchase a ring will be assigned to an SFA alumnus in the students' corresponding field of study. In addition, the student will receive career benefits along with career advice from the mentor.

Students purchasing a ring can select a ring to suit their personality. Rings can be ordered with either a gold top or a purple stone. The SFA Mentor ring also displays the student's degree, the Stephen F. Austin statue, the Austin Building, and the seal of the university. Engraved on the inside of the ring are the words, "A Mentor for Life," which will remind wearers of their obligation to other students as a part of the SFA family. Only a ring like the Mentor Ring can tell the story of college years here in the piney woods.

Hats Off to Homecoming

Students, Faculty and Alumni Enjoy the Festives

It's Friday night, the school bell has rung, and midterms have come to an end. Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. started off Homecoming with chicken and waffles at the Ag Pond, along with a Greek Step Show that included performances from Iota Phi Theta, Phi Beta Sigma, Alpha Phi Alpha, Zeta Phi Beta, Alpha Kappa Alpha and Delta Sigma Theta .

Other Homecoming events included, the annual Torchlight Parade and Bonfire, Lumberjack Alley Tailgate Party, SFA Alumni Duck Dash, the Downtown Homecoming Parade, and a dinner in honor of SFA alumni.

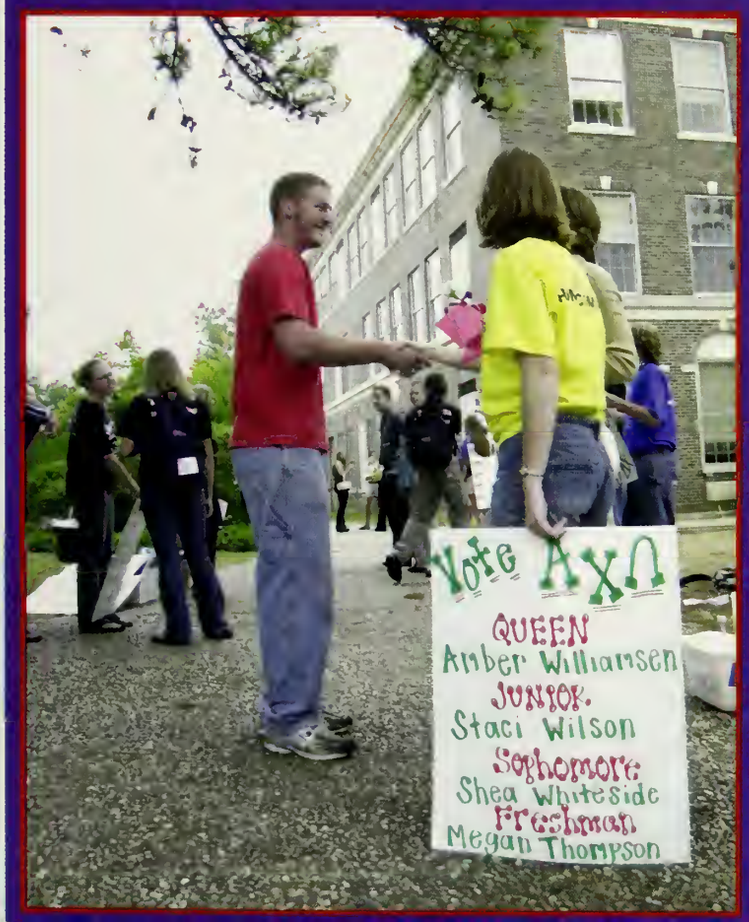

The pouring rain didn't wash away the spirit of SFA fans as they supported the Lumberjacks at Homer Bryce Stadium. However, the grueling game ended with a 10-8 loss to arch-rival Sam Houston State. It was all smiles for Senior Laci Halik, who was crowned 2002 Homecoming Queen with Brad Verret as King. Other members of the royal court included, Robin Houston, Derek Keith Hicks, Blayne Smith, Robin Bauer, Justin Fox, Emily Brown, Karl Seelbach, Amber Williamson, Jeff Davis and Ryan Haupstueck.

Ahead of the Class

Students Spend Long Hours Preparing for Tests

So classes have officially begun, and you have received your syllabus for your courses. "Five tests," you scream, "and our first one is in one week." So the following afternoon, you make your daily trip to Steen Library, where you find peace and quiet to get serious with your studies.

If Steen Library is not your fortè, SFA has nice peaceful scenery where one can become one with their books. Some SFA students find relaxing study areas outside at the Ag Pond, under the trees and even in the University Center, near the snack machines.

Many students find success in studying with a friend before the big "T" day. However, the friend must be one who is in your same class to avoid chatting instead of studying. Other students turn to the study programs offered in the library. The AARC, Academic Assistance Resource Center, is very popular among students. Students needing assistance in a particular area are assigned to a tutor and work one-on-one to achieve optimal success. SI Groups are also another preference for students wanting to make the grade. Selected courses are assigned a tutor who sits in on class lectures, and in weekly or bi-weekly meetings, reiterates the instructor's lecture in review groups with the students.

Whichever method you choose to master your tests, make sure you get a head start to stay ahead of the class.

Back The Buck

Students adapt to new style of purchasing goods

You wake up at 8 a.m. for your first class on a Monday morning, and what is your first thought? "Coffee! I need coffee!" You dig around in your pants from yesterday, check your secret stash and then begin to freak out. You do not have any cash. JackBucks to the rescue. Your mom recently put $50 worth of bucks into your account last week. Now, thanks to mom, you will soon be tasting that warm smooth cup of rich coffee. The thought alone enlivens you.

This is JackBucks at work. You or a parent can deposit money into your account via the Internet using a credit card, or buy making a cash payment to the business office. Once this process has been completed you are free to use the bucks at many locations on and off campus. Off-campus franchises include Cancun Tanning Salon, McDonalds, Pro-Cuts, Varsity Book Store and Whataburger, to name a few. Your bucks may also be used on campus at Chick-fil-A, Starbucks Coffee, Pizza Hut and the University Bookstore and Graphics Shop.

So the next time you feel the desire to munch on some Dunkin Donuts or to purchase tickets to campus events, make sure that you have the bucks, JackBucks that is, to back up your hunger and desire.

Back to the Future

Advanced Technology Sweeps Through SFA

Advancementa in technology seen throughout the world also are evident on campus. On your last visit to the Steen Library, you may have noticed the plethora of flat screen computers and new Apples? This is technology at its finest. ATechnology has changed with the times to accommodate the needs of consumers. Many stydents can remember, once upon a time, when DOS was the only operating system available. Now you only have a real computer if you have Windows XP, Media Player, a DVD burner and lots of RAM.

Computers aren't the only devices that have joined the list of futuristic equipment. Students no longer have to carry around day planners, because personal digital assistants are hot on the market. PDAs have replaced the traditional ways of keeping up with appointments and "penciling people in." One can even check e-mail, all at the touch of a hand . . . or a palm.

NES, Sega, Tetris, Atari . . . Nope, not any more. Today video gamers spend hours at a time playing XBOX, Gamecube, and the new and advanced, Playstation 2. The resolution of the graphics on these video games has been greatly enhanced, adding a dose of reality to game play.

Cell phones aren't even the same anymore. They allow access to the Internet, and a user can download ring tones, and even take pictures with the phones. These nice toys cost a pretty penny but have become the norm for today's college student.

Looking Good Today

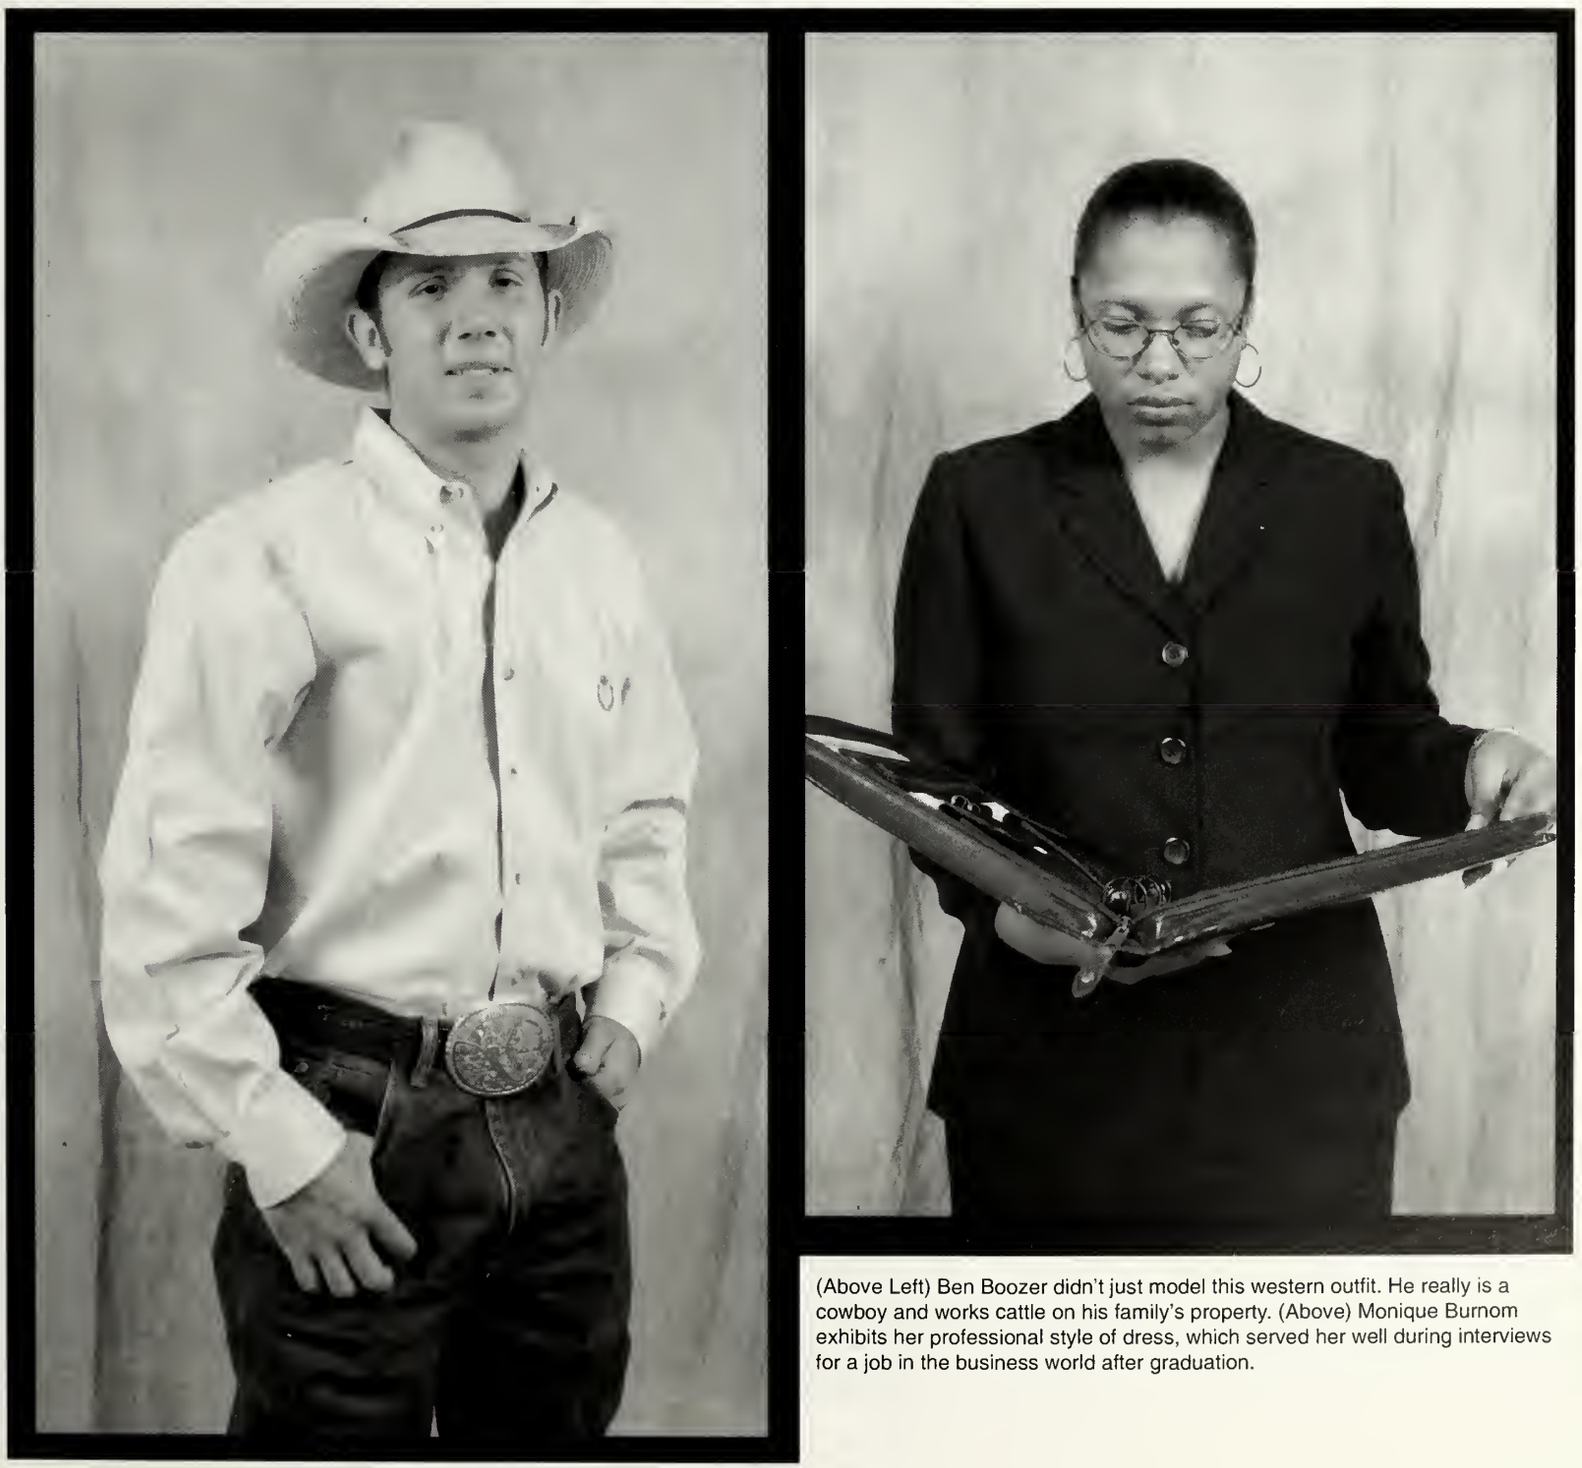

Students model the latest in campuswear

Although SFA is located in what many students refer to as "Nac-a-nowhere," this University can definately rely on the latest fashions reaching this far-out place of higher learning. These students volunteered to participate in a photo session, in which they displayed their own unique fashion looks.

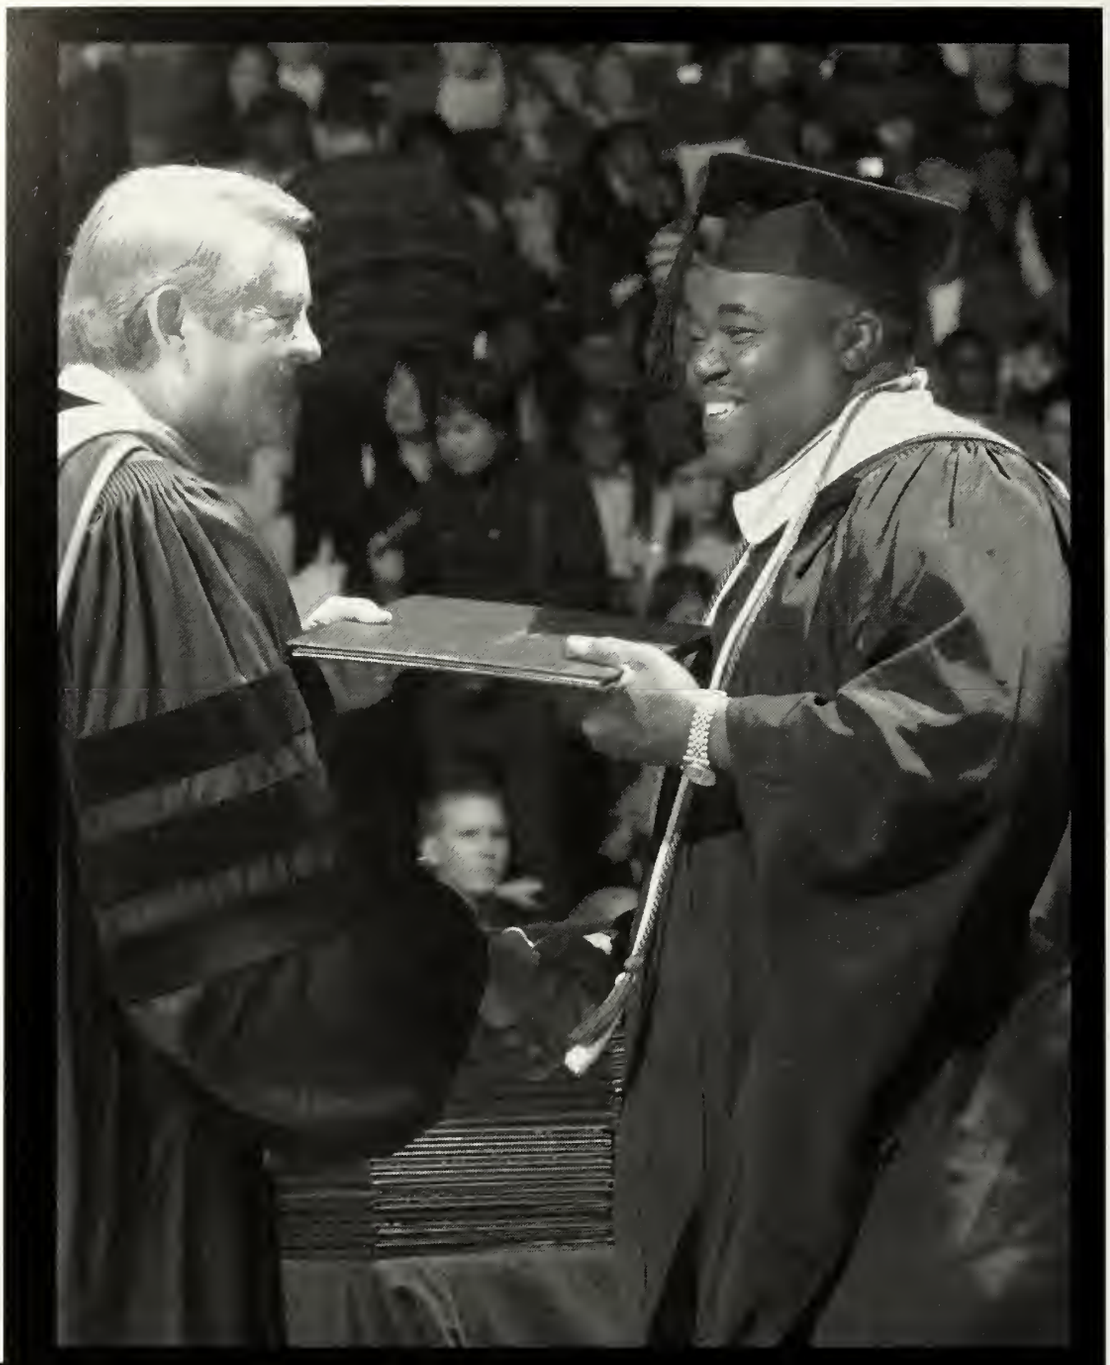

Styles seen on campus run the gamut from cowboy to fashion mode. Coach and Louis Vuitton are both hot student fashion trends, with their designer purses and backpacks. Other popular fashion brands include: PhatPharm, Ambercrombie and Fitch, Express Mens and Womens, Old Navy, Bananna Republic, and Gap.

Even though the fashion designers are doing a great job marketing to the college population, the long time traditional looks are still the all-time college favorites. The ever-popular jeans and sweatshirts, flip-flops, and tennis shoes are the "get up and go" clothes for SFA students as they make their way to and from class.

Graduates Rejoice After a Long Anticipated Event

SFA 101 completed, check. English and history courses completed, check. Kinesiology classes completed, check. All mathematics requirements completed, check. Successfuly passed all TASP requirements, check. And you filed your degree plan some semester hours ago. So now you are ready to take your long-anticipated walk across the William R. Johnson Coliseum stage.

Commencement exercises for 2002 followed SFA's traditional graduation rituals and traditions. Numerous family and friends came out to help graduates celebrate their accomplishments.

The graduates of the year 2002 have advanced to the next plateau, with help and encouragement from their family and friends and from the faculty and staff of SFA. They are now ready for the next big step — The Real World.

Caution! Under Construction

Male Residence Hall Makes Way for New Building

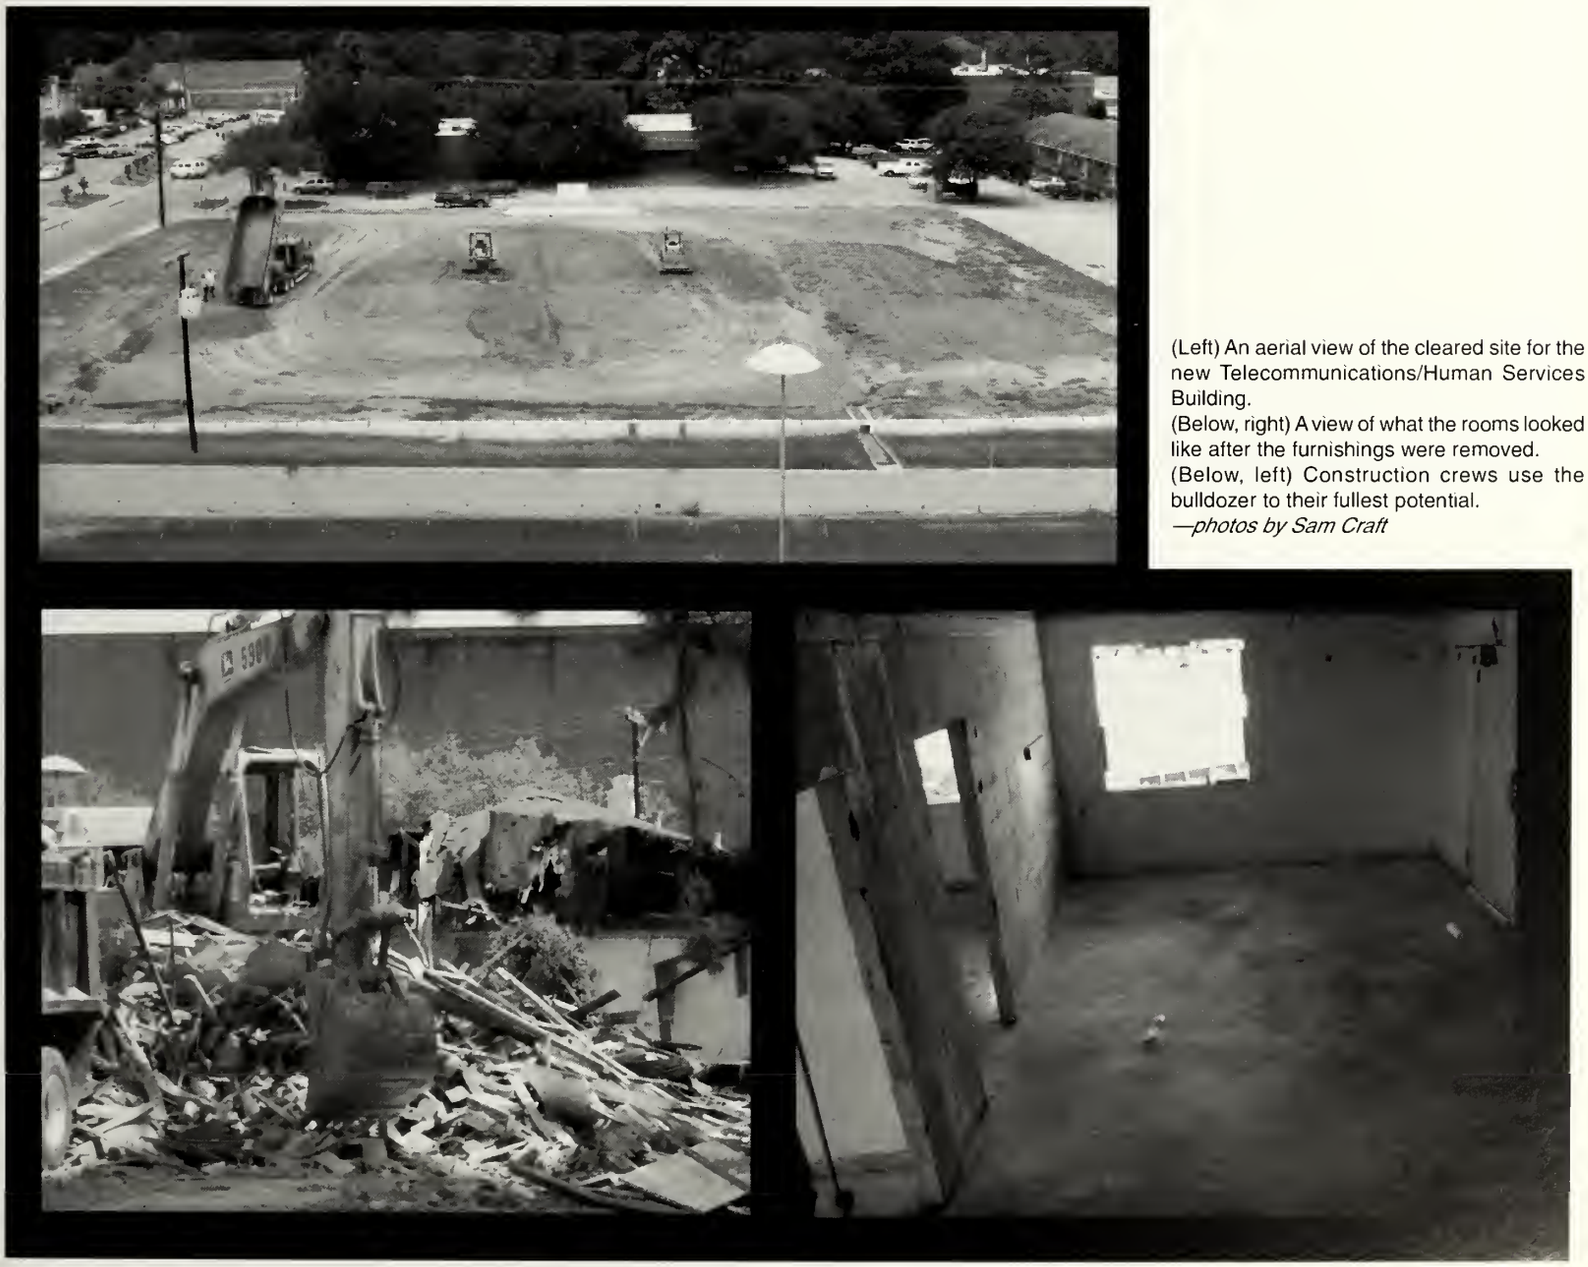

Since early fall, students walked past the rubble of what used to be the male halls known as The Units.

A new building will occupy the former site of The Units and is set to open in the spring of 2004. Taking up the majority of the first floor will be new offices for the telecommunications department, which oversees computer network and telephone functions. The remainder of the building, the second and third floors, will provide a new home for officers currently in the Birdwell Building.

The new building will have high-tech classrooms and new offices for the human services faculty and staff. Facilities will include clinics for speech pathology, counseling programs, and special education. Dr. Anna Bradfield, chair of the Department of Human Services, said the new facilities are much needed.

Future plans are uncertain for the Birdwell Building.

Ladies. . . and Gentlemen

Students Flock to First Ever Drag Show

More than 250 enthusiastic audience members packed the UC Twilight Ballroom to see the first drag show ever presented at SFA. Sponsoring organization was the Student Activities Association.

Kristen Paige, Miranda Paige and Tapanga Paige put on an exciting and enteraining show for the audience. Lip-syncing performances featured selections from favorite artists such as Pink, Mariah Carey and Madonna. The audience got a surprise when Kristen snatched off her wig and sequined dress, revealing her black-and-white bustier and silver thong. An SAA representative said they were prepared for possible negative reactions to the unusual show, but the audience members were respectful and the night ended without negative disruption.

The Paige trio is not new to the drag queen industry. Tapanga and Miranda have been participating in drag for the past two years. Kristen has only been involved for the past months, but has already competed in numerous pagents.

Get Your Party On

Local Clubs are Weekend Hot Spots

The week is beginning to wind down, and what better way to start off your weekend than a Thursday night boogie-down at Jitterbugs? However, Jitterbugs isn't the only place to let loose for the weekend. Other Nacogdoches night scenes include The Anex, Bullfrogs and the newly opened Lumberyard in downtown Nacogdoches. And if the clubs aren't your idea of a real party, there are always the house and Greek parties.

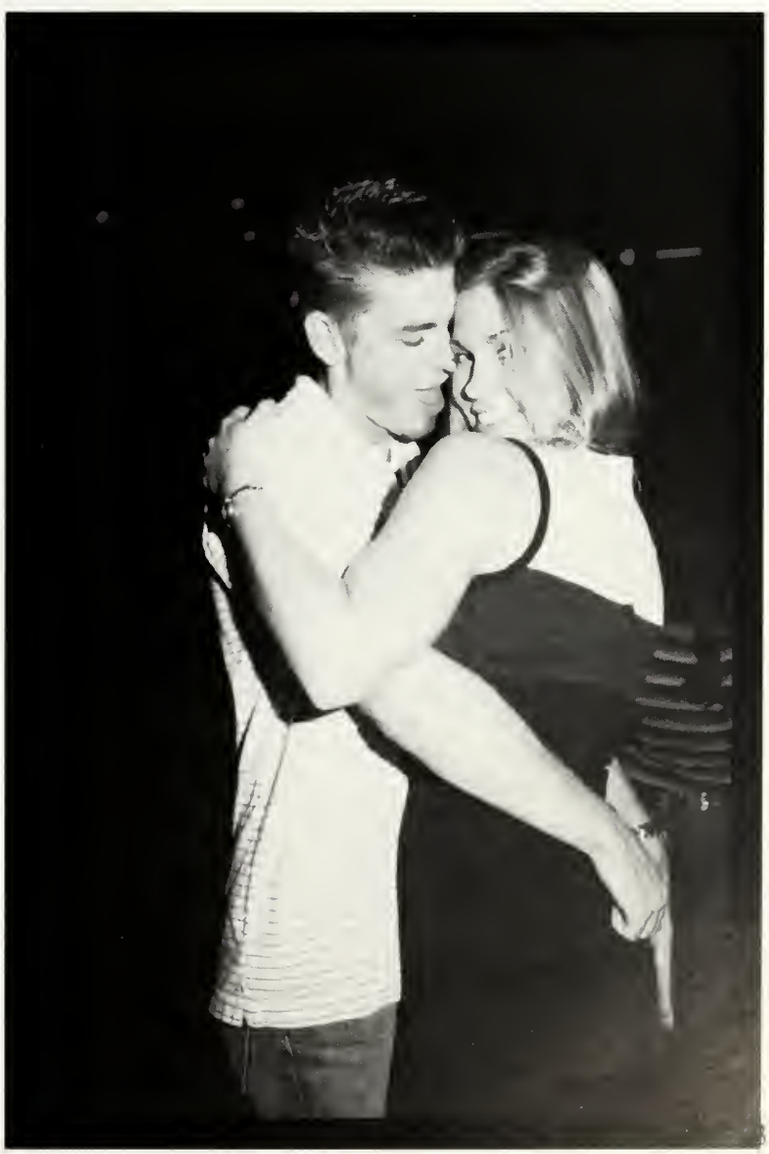

Every year, Jitterbugs hosts its Halloween Costume Cash Give-Away, with cash prizes going to the best dressed Halloween outfit. Jitterbugs is also known for the variety of music that is played. Anything from country, rap and oldies to goodies, rock and alternative can be heard on the dance floor.

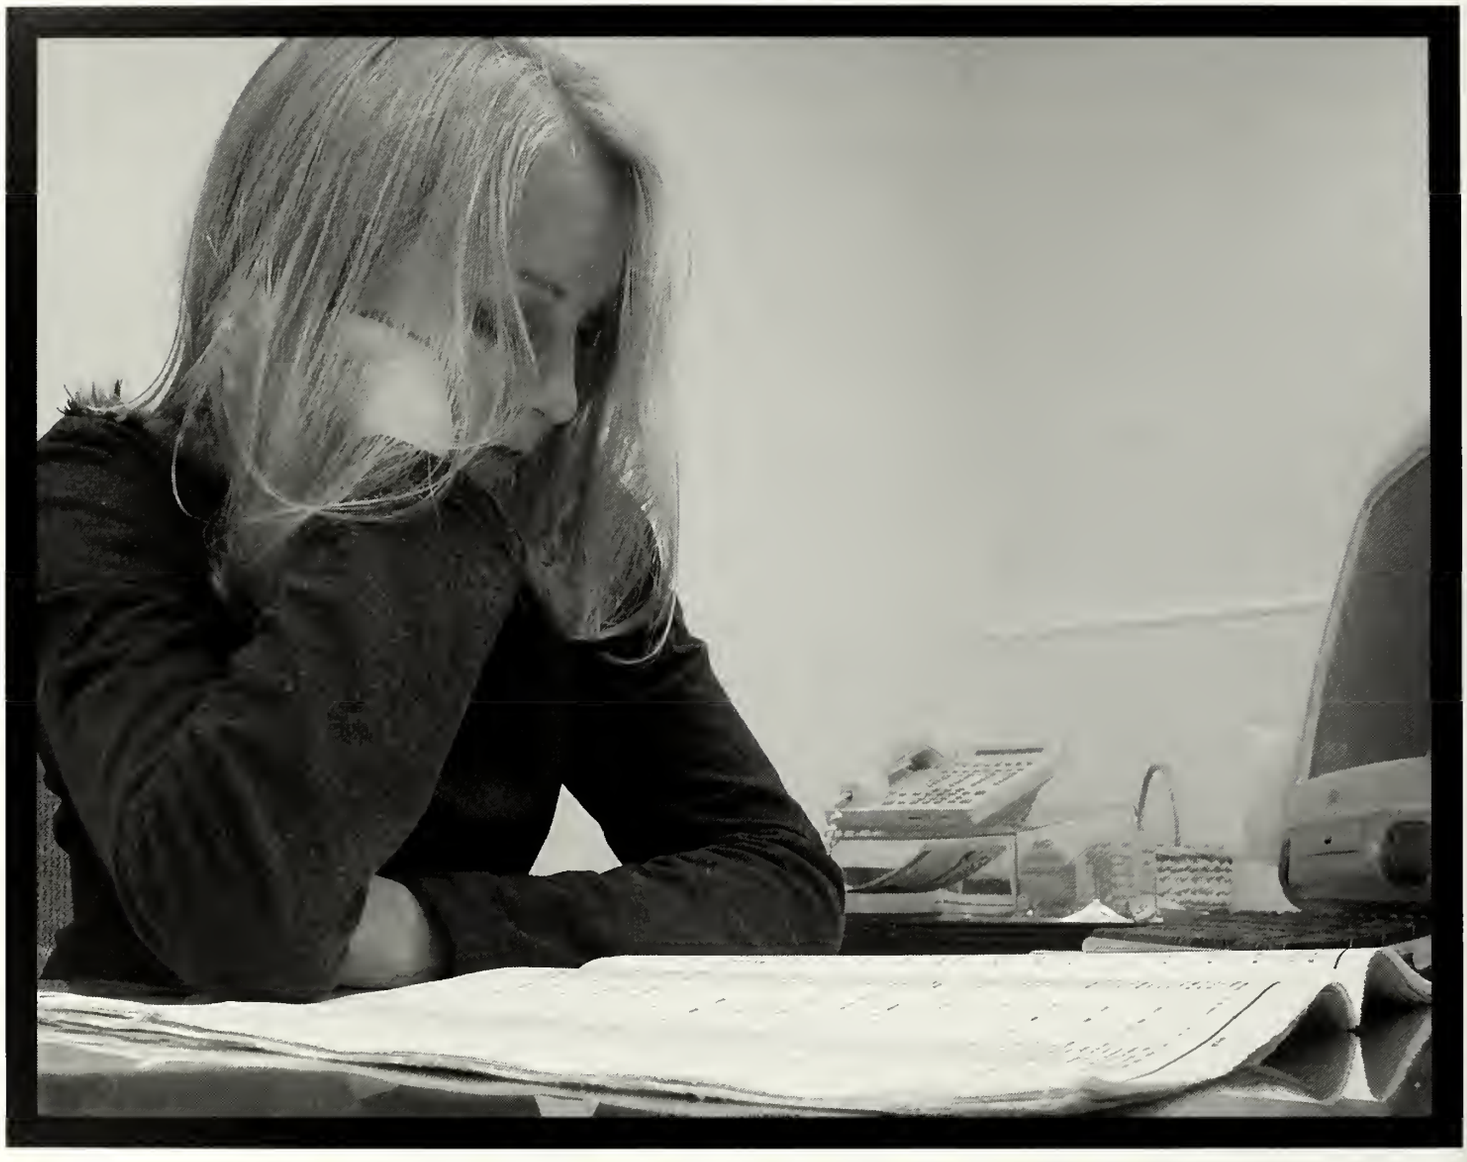

Recently, the Lumberyard opened its doors to the college crowd, offering entrance cover discounts to the ladies and Greek letter discounts. Other well known parties are sponsored by Greek organizations, such as the collaboration of Kappa Alpha Psi and Sigma Chi. All-campus exchanges also provide opportunities to party with your friends and to make some new friends.

So the next time you are bored, grab a couple of your friends and ride around town. You're bound to find a good party.

A Point Above the Rest

Only Three Graduate with 4.0

Fall graduates Kim Geiter, Matt Lyle and Kathryn Morton were in a class by themselves, so to speak—they were the only students to graduate in December with a perfect grade point average of 4.0.

GPA's aren't the only thing that Kim and Matt have in common, however. They share an apartment,they are eagerly planning their wedding in April, and both graduated with a degree in Bachelor of Fine Arts. After graduation, they moved to Dallas to pursue their career dreams of working in the theater. Kim is working in public relations and marketing for the Dallas Children's Theater, and Matt plans to substitute teach in addition to acting and directing in community theater productions.

The University community may have recognized Kathryn Morton's name from The Pine Log. She served as features editor of the SFA campus newspaper her final undergraduate semester. After transferring to SFA from Kilgore College, she earned her bachelor's degree in communication and enrolled in graduate school at SFA.

All three of the graduates considered themselves typical college students, despite the fact that their grade-point averages were certainly above the norm. They went to class, went to work, ate, participated in extra curricular activities and returned home late at night to do homework. All three believe their involvement in extra-curricular activities helped them with their time management skills.

Kim Geiter and Matt Lyle, both theatre graduates, share more than their 4.0 GPAs. The two are planning to be married in April, and both are pursuing their dreams of careers in the theater in Dallas. Lights! Camera! Action

SFA Theatre Department Hosts Downstage Play

A student production of "A Dead Man's Apartment" in the fall provided the audience with "lots of laughs" from a "high-energy ride."

That was the student director's description of the Edward Allan Baker comedy, which was presented in the DownstageTheatre of the Griffith Fine Arts Center. Matt Lyle, a senior theatre major from Texarkana, directed the sold-out production, which had a cast of four students.

"(The play) is slapstick, but it's really honest and has serious moments that slap you in the face," Lyle said. The one-act play followed an East Texas couple having an affair. Lonnie, a married-but-lonely mechanic, and Nickie, his mistress, a married-but-lonely hardware store clerk, met twice a week in an apartment to talk and kiss. They chose a day to leave their spouses, but when the day came, Lonnie got cold feet, and there was a message on his answering machine: "You're a dead man."

"I felt (the story) had Texas written all over it," Lyle said. The director said he was lucky to have cast "really smart, funny actors" who were able to play the characters with successful timing and taste.

"Commedy doesn't work if you're not funny and confident," he said.

The production was Lyle's final work as an SFA student. After graduating in December, he is pursuing his interests in the theatre and in directing in Dallas.

STEPHEN F. AUSTIN STATE UNIVERSITY

Greetings!

I hope that your year at SFA has been as exciting and challenging as mine has been. During my "freshman" year of introduction and discovery, I learned what a wonderful institution we have, and I met many enthusiastic and capable individuals who are associated with Stephen F. Austin State University. My most vivid impression, after one year on the job, is that our faculty and staff members are committed to the success of our University and to your success as a student. It is why we are all here.

With that in mind, I believe that we have much work to do to make SFA the best that it can be. We are working diligently to put in place a strategic plan that will give us a roadmap to excellence in all areas, from research to academics to serving students outside the classroom. With the help of a nationally recognized consultant, the planning process is taking shape, and the entire University community is working in teams to address issues and areas of importance.

Despite a dip in our enrollment numbers this year, SFA is moving forward to meet the challenges of a global economy in a diverse world. If you have ideas about how we can better accomplish this goal, I encourage you to share them with us. My door is always open for dialogue and discussion to help us improve your education experience.

My best wishes for a successful and productive year.

Governor reveals plan for first generation college students

Governor Rick Perry made his fall stop at SFA memorable by plugging his new "Creating Opportunity" program before the backdrop of a handful of first generation college students.

Perry, who ultimately won the Texas gubernatorial election in November against Tony Sanchez (Dem.), unveiled three financial assistance programs to help Texans achieve a college education before several hundred students, faculty, administrators and Nacogdoches residents in the UC Spirit Lounge.

The most highly touted of Perry's three programs was the First Generation Grant Program, which sets aside $20 million to help students receive higher education whose parents did not. The grant program also will help higher learning institutions recruit, counsel and prepare these first generation students.

"There is no greater priority in this state than education," Perry said. "An educated Texan inherits a world of unlimited opportunity.

"More often than not, college educated parents have college educated children. If we attract more first generation college students to our institutions of higher learning, it will pay great dividends for generations to come."

Perry said students whose parents did not attend college score 35 to 40 points below the national average on the SAT test, something the grant program hopes to eliminate in the future.

Money for the First Generation program will come from the Workforce Investment Act's funds, which are intended solely for education and job training. However, each institution will also have the discretion to apply the grant money toward financial aid for qualifying students.

"There was a day when a high school degree was good enough," Perry said. "That day has passed us by. There should not be one child who thinks college is not for them simply because mom and dad didn't go or couldn't go."

Besides the First Generation Grant Program, Perry also plans to reorganize the College Access Loan Program, which provides 25,000 Texas students with zero-interest loans for higher education.

"By expanding this program, we will provide a helping hand to many more deserving students from low-income and middle class families," Perry said. "It's always a thrill to have young people come up to me, look me in the eye and say the only reason they are here (at school) is because of one of the many state grant programs."

The governor also introduced revitalizing work-study programs, which help students pay for college through part time jobs, by asking for a three-fold expansion of the program He hopes to invest $5 million in the program to increase the number of students involved from 2,600 to upwards of 8,200 by providing campus jobs for these students.

Despite all of this, Perry said the major factor facing higher education in Texas is getting those who start school to graduate.

"The most important thing for students who have taken the first steps is to continue to study and finish college," Perry said. "Our children must be set on the pathway to college long before they enter high school. These programs are a mythical key that fits perfectly to that door of opportunity."

Industry giants, SFA join forces to lead efforts in poultry science education, research

Bo Pilgrim, well known president and founder of Pilgrim's Pride Corporation, was among dignitaries who visited SFA in the fall to help the University celebrate the opening of the new Center for Applied Poultry Studies and Research, the only such facility of its kind in the country.

The center, including four new broiler houses, is located north of Nacogdoches on U. S. Highway 259. The house provides hands-on experience for undergraduate students, allowing classroom principles to be applied in a commercial setting. Different management practices are being utilized in each of the houses, allowing students to compare the practices. It also provides a laboratory for graduate research.

Gross income from the broiler houses is projected to exceed $145,000 annually. The concept of income generation to fund academic programs is a creative approach to expansion in a tight economy. Plans are to use the income to improve the facilities, pay the supervisor's salary and fund scholarships in poultry science and for recruiting efforts.

The project was funded by a group of corporate donors, including Pilgrim's Pride, Tyson, Lubins Systems, Multi-Fan, Big Dutchmen Feeders, General Shelters, Diversified Imports, L. B. White and Animmal Science Products, which provided lunch for more than 200 guests who attended the ribbon cutting ceremony.

Dr. Tim Cherry, associate professor of agriculture, said the expansion of SFA's poultry science program brings the University into an extremely competitive arena with other premier poultry science programs throughout the nation. "SFA is the only university in the country with this type of facility," he said.

"It makes sense that SFA should be a leader in education and research in poultry science, since we are located in the broiler growing area of Texas," he said.

He records cars going by, clocks ticking and instruments playing onto his computer. The sounds seem random until he orchestrates them into a musical composition.

For more than 12 years Herbert M. Midgley, a teacher in the Department of Music, has been working with M.I.D.I. (Musical Instrument Digital Interface) technology and composing various ensemble and symphonic pieces.

On Oct. 11, 2002, he made SFA musical history with the first fully electronic media recital ever presented at the University.

"The 12 compositions were composed on the 11th day of each month since September 11. Every day on the 11th I would try to capture the atmosphere of what was going on," Midgley said. "What I was feeling, what was going on around me.

"I wanted to find a way that I could express my feelings and emotions during this tragic time in our history. I felt that I couldn't achieve this through the use of traditional composition techniques.

"The medium was appropriate; I wasn't hearing the sweet sounds of horns playing. I tried to put down the chaos I was hearing in my head. So I used the electronic medium to compose the sounds and thoughts that I had bottled up inside me."

Midgley said the composition process is a little different. He doesn't use traditional keys and chords, but he does use the same motives and ideas as when composing any kind of music.

He said this kind of music is "not something you go home after a long days work to listen to. It's designed to listen to once or twice."

"Some people say its ugly," Midgley said.

Instead of a group of performers on stage, there was a multimedia projector displaying images as the music played. The hall's sound system helped the audience enjoy the electronic experience.

Midgley's influences include classical and modern composers ranging from his former composition teacher, Dr. Dan Beaty, and John Cage, who worked with electronic media, to Bela Bartok, Mozart, Beethoven and Edgard Varese.

"You don't get an opportunity in East Texas to hear avant garde music," Midgley said. He said the recital was the first fully electronic music recital since the '60s, when electronic music hit the mainstream with keyboards and synthesizers.

NOTE: Photos of other 2002 Who's Who winners were not available.

Almost 100 SFA juniors, seniors and graduate students were chosen by a University committee this year for membership in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. The national award was created to recognize outstanding students on American campuses of higher education.

To be eligible for Who's Who recognition, students must have completed at least 66 credit hours with a minimum 3.0 GPA. Graduate students must have earned a minimum 3.2 GPA on at least 12 hours.

Selection is based on scholarship, participation and leadership in extracurricular activities, citizenship and service to the University and to the community. Students are judged solely on University-level accomplishments with more weight going to SFA activities and awards.

Close Call

Lumberjack footbal team finishes year 6-5 after several close games

In close games like the classic rivalry between Northwestern State and SFA, turnovers can win or lose the game for a team. An interception that Northwestern State returned for a touchdown doomed the Jacks this year in the 42-35 loss.

The Demon win kept Chief Caddo off the SFA campus for at least one more year and ended the SFA season with a mediocre 6-5 record for the third year in a row.

"It was a great game," said SFA head coach Mike Santiago. "You hate to come out on the short end. You hate to see young guys turn the ball over like that. It's something they will remember. But it is something they will overcome."

Searching for Perfection

Senior receiver says leadership is key to success on, off the field

Leadership, hard work and determination are what Tyler senior Anthony Dingle brings to the Lumberjack Football team.

Dingle (5' 11", 187) is a three-year letter for the Lumberjacks at the wide receiver position. He graduated from Robert Lee High School in Tyler and strives for perfection from himself and the Lumberjack team.

"Perfection is the main thing that keeps me motivated to play this game," Dingle said. "Until I reach perfection, I have to keep working hard to achieve my goals."

In order to prepare for each game, Dingle said that mental preparation starts in practice.

"Preparing mentally for a game starts with focus in practice," Dingle said. "It is like that old saying goes: 'You play how you practice.'"

In saying that, Dingle feels that this year his team has the potential to make a lot of positive things happen this season.

"We are pretty good because we have a lot of experience on the team now," Dingle said. "The freshmen that we had last year are sophomores now, and everyone else has matured a year also, so we know what it takes to get the job done."

He said the defense and practicing the little things are key things for a successful season.

Dingle said he plays football because it is physical and competitive.

"I like the game because of the physical and competitive aspects of it," He said. "I am a physical and competitive person; plus, I do not think that anyone can hold me on the field."

He has won multiple awards, such as first team All-Conference (2001) and Honorable Mention All-American (2001).

Dingle mentioned that his mother is the one person who inspires him to pursue all of the goals that he has in life.

"My mother always tells me to keep my head up and push," Dingle said. "That is why I never settle for second best at anything that I do."

Dingle said that this season he hopes to reach a goal of at least 50 catches and to have over 1,000 yards rushing.

After he graduates, he hopes to be offered a NFL contract. If that contract does not happen, he said he could always fall back on his degree in finance.

Playing for Fun

SFA Intramurals provide opportunity for all students to be involved

A staple on the SFA Intramural fields, flag football is the most popular sport sponsored by the intramural department on campus.

Although the sport is supposed to have no contact, flag football often brings bumps and bruises to participants who go all out for a win.

An SFA student throws a pass during the Intramural Flag Football Championships, which always provides a big crowd and support from the student body.

Sacrificing his body for his team, a male student leaps for the ball during a flag football game on campus in early October.
